Adler Planetarium & Astronomy Museum
Welcomes Spring with Latin Heat on Saturday, March 23, 2002

The weather outside may be Chicago's traditional blustery March, but the lakefront will sizzle at the Adler Planetarium & Astronomy Museum's Luna Cabana on March 23, 2002 from 7:30 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. Continuing in the tradition of the Adler's extremely popular summer live salsa music and dance series, this special Luna Cabana welcomes spring with a mix of hot Latin music, dance instruction and food and drinks with a tropical flair.

Guests can dance the night away to the sensational sounds of Orchestra Rumba and if they haven't yet learned the rhythm of the salsa, free dance instruction by the Chicago Rhythms Dance Studio will be available to get them and keep them on the dance floor. Cover charge is $12 per person, $10 for Adler members.

The Adler's Luna Cabana - Latin Flair and sizzle on Chicago's lakefront!

The Adler Planetarium & Astronomy Museum is the first planetarium in the Western Hemisphere. Its astronomy programs have reached over 35 million people during the past 71 years. Seven state-of-the-art exhibition galleries located in the stunning new Sky Pavilion and the recently renovated landmark 1930s building present modern space exploration along with the history of astronomy. The world's first StarRider™ Theater, the most technologically advanced, audience-interactive planetarium, fuels the imagination of visitors during virtual flights through the cosmos. With a staff of over 200, the Adler pursues its mission to present the human quest to better understand the universe. Adler scientists and historians, who hold joint appointments at the University of Chicago and Northwestern University, are working at the forefront of research in astronomy and its fascinating history. The Adler is leading the way into the new "Space Millennium."
